About

Erin is a speaker for the Grow with Google partner program. She has spent the vast majority of her career working for/with small businesses and nonprofits in a variety of roles. Her passion for small business began with her family owned businesses. After college she learned the ins and outs of nonprofits, eventually running a successful Chamber of Commerce and earning consecutive titles of Michigan Chamber of Commerce of the Year. In recent years, she's been a Regional Development Director and National Speaker with marketing and technology companies like Constant Contact and Google.

Erin has educated tens of thousands of attendees across North America; a small business owner herself, she promises that you will leave today with simple, easy tips to immediately improve your marketing program. She holds a bachelor of arts degree in Marketing and Business Administration, along with a minor in French.

- I'm one of 13 children
- I love bubbles, in all forms
- I've broken my nose three times
- I have a smelly home, from three teenage boys and the hubby
